

Hello my dear,

I don't know if you've heard of me but I am a very special fairy, with an important job to do. I visit big children like you and collect your diapers, so that I can pass them on to little babies who need them. After all, you don't really need them anymore, do you? Because wow, you're so grown-up these days! And the babies will be very grateful.

I will come and collect your diapers one week from tonight, and I've left you a special calendar so that you can tick off the days until then. Try and make each day diaper-free.

I know you can do it!

I must be on my way now, because I'm having a cup of moonbeam tea with a moth who lives just outside home, and then it's a long flight back to Fairyland.

Lots of love,

The Diaper
Fairy x

P.S.

I have left you a little gift with this letter, for being so good.
