

Hello my dear!

I thought I'd write you this little note before Christmas because one of my elves told me that you're a bit worried about not having a chimney.

Now then my dear, you're quite right to think that I usually do come down chimneys on Christmas Eve, but you must remember that I am a rather magical person, and I have lots of other ways of getting into a house. For example, I can make myself very small and jump through letterboxes, or I can whisper magic words to make all the glass in your windows disappear - only for a few minutes mind you, while I step through. So you see you mustn't worry and you can rest assured that I'll have no trouble dropping off your presents.

Keep on being good!

Lots of love

Father Christmas x